

Mission

By using creativity, technology, and one-on-one guidance, we are positively changing personal perceptions of self and promoting broader community views of those on the autism spectrum from people with disabilities to people with capabilities.

The stories we hear from our families about finding hope, establishing connections, and watching relationships blossom with our mentor and student teams—along with the growth we see in our students' self-confidence and self-advocacy skills—tell us that we are doing something important and impactful. Celebrating our students' many successes and achievements—from having the confidence to present their work to a group of peers or join a new club at school to finding meaningful employment or moving on to post-secondary opportunities at community colleges and universities—brings us great joy because each achievement, small or large, represents commitment, hard work, and perseverance. We are incredibly grateful to all of the donors who make it possible for us to do this important, life-changing work.
